Buddhist Name

Hello Lihue Hongwanji members and Dharma friends. I'm Kazunori Takahashi who is the new minister of Lihue Hongwanji Mission. I started to work on September 1. Thanks to your kind help, I am now getting settled into my new place. Since I have been on Kauai for about 5 years, I became used to living on this island. But I'm new at Lihue Hongwanji, so I will appreciate your guidance and support. This is my first article for "Dharma Wheel." I'd like to periodically share Jodo Shinshu teachings, Buddhist traditions, etc. with you through this newsletter.

In November of this year, Honpa Hongwanji Mission of Hawaii 125th Anniversary Kauai District Commemorative Service will be observed at Kapaa Hongwanji. At that time, Affirmation Rites will be held. Through the Affirmation Rites, you can receive a Buddhist Name from Bishop Eric Matsumoto.

I think that some people might have a misunderstanding about the Buddhist Name. In a pre-cremation service or funeral service, a minister often presents a Buddhist Name for a deceased. Because of this tradition, it may be considered that a Buddhist Name is for the deceased. However, in the funeral service, a minister gives the Buddhist Name for those who didn't have a chance to receive the Buddhist Name during one's lifetime. Actually, a Buddhist Name is the name given to those who follow the Buddha Dharma. It would enable us to gain awareness of a follower of the teachings of Buddhism.

This is usually composed of three Chinese Characters. The first character is same. This is read Shaku (釈) which means a disciple of Sakyamuni Buddha. This is one of the Chinese Characters of Sakyamuni Buddha's name. The other two characters are usually selected from Buddhist scriptures.

When I first learned the origin of this tradition, I was really surprised. This tradition started in ancient China about 1,700 years ago. A Chinese master, named Doan (312-385), found the description from a scripture. It says, "Even if there are four rivers, and each river has a name, it is going to be the same name if those rivers enter the ocean. Similarly, if we rely upon the Buddha Dharma, we are going to be a disciple of Sakyamuni Buddha equally, it is proper for us to use the part of Sakyamuni Buddha's name."

After the minister found this description, he made his own Buddhist Name, "Shaku Doan." Then, other ministers were impressed by his reflection, and followed his lead. This tradition was brought to Japan, and Shinran Shonin also had the Buddhist Name, "Shaku Shinran." This tradition continues over 1,700 years beyond time and space.

Thinking about this tradition, I always think over the meaning of receiving a name. Normally all of us have a first name. I guess our first name was given by someone like our parents or our grandparents when we were born. They may have decided on a name after much consideration. In addition, there are some reasons for selecting a name. Thus we would notice somebody's hope or thought through our own name.

The Buddhist Name includes the character "Shaku". Through the Buddhist Name which has a part of Sakyamuni Buddha's name, we would renew the awareness of a Buddhist and remember the Buddha's Teachings. Thus a name would make us be aware of the important things.

This November, the special observance will take place on Kauai. If you don't have a Buddhist Name, I would like to encourage you to receive the Buddhist Name at the Affirmation Rites. If you have already received a Buddhist Name, please take this opportunity to remember your Buddhist Name and its meaning. Namo Amida Butsu.

Life is a Journey-Where is the Finish Line?

Carol Valentine, September 14, 2014

Life is a journey . . . we've heard that before.

Since I like to think in metaphors, when I thought, this past week, of life being a journey, I thought of a race . . . not a sprint of course, but a marathon, a steeple chase or a cross country race. For those of you who have never heard of a steeple chase, it has been described as a distance race with booby traps. Gee, sounds a lot like life . . . long distance (we hope) rigged with booby traps, surprises, messy situations, obstacles and hurdles to overcome. The finish line? In a cross country race, there is a finish line that is the same for everyone and when people hit the finish line, they stop, and maybe start thinking about the next race. We usually think of the finish line as reaching a goal; getting a good grade on a test, making a team, getting a new job, getting a degree, retirement, etc. Those goals, while important, are not the finish line. The finish line? Our own personal finish line is the end of our life, whenever that may be. Let's compare cross country races and life.

In a cross country race, everyone runs for themselves and they run as fast as they possibly can. The winner is the one who crosses the finish line first. The fastest person wins the race and there is only one winner. If anyone falls down, they have to pick themselves up and keep on going. In life, everyone crosses the finish line at their own pace. We don't have to push anyone else out of the way to be first. We don't have to be the fastest, the best, the smartest or the biggest, just be and keep going. In life, it doesn't matter how fast we are, as long as we keep going. If we fall down, there is always someone else who can help us up again or help us go on. Life is not a solo adventure. We have each other to rely on.

In cross country, there is no stopping to rest and relax. It really is all about running fast without looking around, without enjoying the scenery. The race is all about the end point, not the journey. Life, on the other hand, is about the journey. Remember what's important about life. Enjoy the beauty of life, look around and appreciate the present moments as they happen. Don't ruin the present moment by rethinking past difficulties or worrying about possible future problems. As Buddha says, be present always. He said, "Do not dwell in the past. Do not dream of the future. Concentrate the mind on the present moment." Life is more beautiful that way, even in the difficult times.

In cross country, there is only one way to go from start to finish and that is to RUN! Just run as fast as you possible can, go all out for the whole length of the course until you reach the finish line, then drop with exhaustion. Nothing is allowed except running. Life, though, is not constrained in the same way. If our mission is to get to the end of our life it doesn't matter how we do it as long as we are being the best person we can be, living the best life possible and keeping our Buddhist concepts in our hearts and minds. If we look at life as a much longer cross country journey we would need to be creative to reach the end. How we get there is up to us, as long as we do not interfere with anyone else. We can walk, ride a bicycle, hop on a motorcycle, drive a car, we can even step on a bus (although we all have to get off the bus by ourselves at our own final stop), or we can even do a hop, skip and jump to get to our finish line. We can even change how we move and invent new moves along the way. There is no single right way to get there, as long as we remember to be kind and gentle with everyone along the way and smile.

In all of this, I think it is significant to remember that we are all on this journey of life together and that we can all choose a way that works for us. I won't make the same choices as the next person, but that's ok as long as we choose to be there to help each other when we fall down.

I heard this quote in a song a few weeks ago. It was a song by a country-western singer by the name of Randy Travis. It expresses the idea of compassion and interdependence as we go through this world.

It's not what you take when you leave this world behind you.

It's what you leave behind you when you go.

For me, one of the most important ideas about life and Buddhism is knowing that Amida Buddha is always there with me and for me. I don't have to be "good" for Amida Buddha to accept me. He is with me and he will wait for me at my finish line, no matter how many detours I may take or bumpy roads I choose to travel. As we have heard, the Nembutsu is not my call to the Buddha, but the Buddha calling me.

NEW HEAD OF SCHOOL NAMED AT PACIFIC BUDDHIST ACADEMY

(HONOLULU) – The Board of Trustees at Pacific Buddhist Academy is pleased to announce that Joshua Hernandez Morse will be its new Head of School.

“As a founding member of the school, Josh brings a comprehensive understanding of how Pacific Buddhist Academy began, where it is at present, and its tremendous potential for growth and expansion,” said Leigh-Ann Miyasato, Chair of the Head of School Search Committee. “Josh has been a tremendous asset to our community and we are impressed by his commitment to leading the school.”

A native of Oregon, Hernandez Morse graduated from the University of Oregon where he received a Bachelor of Arts in Anthropology and a Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing. A former Fulbright Scholar, Hernandez Morse was an instructor at Parker School in Waimea, Hawaii. Pieper Toyama, Pacific Buddhist Academy's founding Head of School and former Headmaster at Parker, hired Hernandez Morse for his first year as an English teacher.

“The next five years are critical for PBA,” said Hernandez Morse. “We have so much momentum to build on – increasing enrollment, a major grant to our Capital Campaign. I am deeply honored and humbled to have been chosen to lead PBA, which has been a second home to me. I want to tell our story to as many people as possible so we can realize our dream of a new classroom building to grow into the future.”

Hernandez Morse has served a number of roles at PBA, including Assistant Head of School, Academic Dean, Athletic Director, Registrar, and, most recently, founder and Director of the school's PeaceBridge Project™, a program created to assist students make successful transitions to college, the work force, and as engaged citizens and ambassadors of peace in their communities.

“It's important for all of us to guide the school,” said Hernandez Morse. “Students, parents, alumni, Trustees, teaching- and non-teaching faculty – we all participate in the practice of our community, just as we work together to create opportunities for growth. For us, it's about making our community a more peaceful place.”

AFFIRMATION RITES CEREMONY (KIE-SHIKI)

DATE: November 16, 2014

TIME: 8:00 AM

PLACE: Kapaa Hongwanji Mission

AFFIRMATION RITES

Kauai Hongwanji Council will hold the Affirmation Rites as a commemorative event of Honpa Hongwanji Mission of Hawaii 125th Anniversary.

The meaning of the Affirmation Rites becomes clear if we look into the original name, “Kie-Shiki”. Kie means to seek refuge, and in Buddhism, we mean to seek refuge in the Three Treasures of the Buddha, Dharma, and Sangha. The other part Shiki means ritual. Therefore, with these meanings in mind, the term “Affirmation Rites” was adopted.

Affirmation Rites is officiated by the Bishop of Honpa Hongwanji Mission of Hawaii. It is a ritual that gives the recipient a definite awareness that he/she is becoming a follower of the Buddha’s teachings and a member of the Hongwanji. During the Rites, each recipient will receive his/her own Homyo (Dharma Buddhist Name) from the Bishop.

There is no limit of age. However, if the aspirant is below 20 years of age, his/her parent or guardian will be asked to sign on the official record.

It is hoped that through this ritual one would gain conviction in his/her religion and that it would be a definite start into a life of a Buddhist.

The application fee for the Affirmation Rites is $50. If you wish to receive the Affirmation Rites, please complete the application form and submit or mail it to your temple with your application fee payable to “Kauai Hongwanji Council” by October 25, 2014. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Rev. Kazunori Takahashi at 245-6262 or Rev. Tomo Hojo at 338-1537.

PEACE ON YOUR WINGS

OHANA ARTS will be presenting its original youth musical "Peace On Your Wings" which is written by Jennifer Taira and Laurie Rubin with music and lyrics by them as well and directed by Carolyn Lee. This Youth Musical is being presented throughout the State of Hawaii through a joint venture of the Honpa Hongwanji Mission of Hawaii, on the occasion of our 125th Anniversary, and Ohana Arts.

"Peace On Your Wings" is a fictional story inspired by the life of Sadako Sasaki. Set in post-war 1950's Japan, it explores the lives of students at a middle school in Hiroshima as they face the terminal illness of their friend amidst their own adolescent drama. The musical score combines modern pop and Japanese influences to create a unique, uplifting, and inspiring show. This musical will be performed by Ohana Arts that includes some students from Hongwanji Mission School and Pacific Buddhist Academy.

Coming to Kauai on January 24 At KCC Performing Arts Center
